Initially we met to read over the project together and set up the github repository. Then while we were there together we divided the code as needed. Kevin wrote worldTimeStep, displayWorld, and makeCritter methods. Leo wrote the walk, run, move, reproduce, getInstances, and fight methods. Both of us caught exceptions in the others code and worked closely together to debug errors with array boundaries, the x and y coordinates of the Critters and the main class. Kevin created the Kevin and Sloth critters and Leo created the Leo and SteveJobs critters.
